

Captioning for TV for the deaf

Well! That's where I get my daily comic relief. I am particularly interested in the substitution of words for the actual spoken words, which in some cases completely changes the spoken word and in some cases reverses the intent. Some improvement has been seen but overall the instances still occur. I am moderately deaf going into severe with two hearing aids and can follow both audio and caption but prefer the caption much to my spouses interest. She is a hearing person but also notes the irregularities particularly the complete changes in intent.
